

Questions & Polls to Build Partnerships

TalkingPoints has put together a list of polls and open-ended questions you can send to your families in the first weeks of the school year to gather some important information. After you've introduced yourself to families, consider asking some of these questions.

You can copy and paste these questions and answer options directly into an announcement in TalkingPoints to send them out to your families.

Polls & Answer Options

Does your family have a device dedicated to learning that is not a smart phone?

- Yes
- No

Is your device shared by multiple people?

- Yes
- No

Does your family have reliable internet access?

- Yes
- No

How often would you like to be in contact with me as the (principal, assistant principal, dean)?

- Once a week
- Once a month
- Once a quarter
- Only when necessary

Is there an adult at home in the evenings to help your child with homework?

- Yes
- No
- Sometimes

How confident are you that your child can be successful in their academic endeavors this year?

- extremely confident
- quite confident
- somewhat confident
- slightly confident
- not confident at all

Open-Ended Questions

How would you like for me as the (principal, assistant principal, dean) to help your child succeed this year?

Do you have any questions for me before the school year begins?